

The ~~lord~~ EUTYCIUS escaped to Venice (now rising to prominence in the security of her lagoons), and in 729 recovered Ravenna by surprise attack in Liutprand's absence. He then marched on Rome to bring Pope Gregory to reason.

Liutprand, who had been engaged successfully in similarly bringing the southern dukes to

Now, we are to improve a position on all the parts, which left the least in person only of Koenig, and Pope Gregory VII. II independent, it was the that caused the II the foundation in 131, when Gregory III - on essentially most apparent - had succeeded Gregory II in the Papacy, to prepare the great but first expedition of 132.

729

Exarch Eutychius marches on Rome

729

1912 Dates J-BK

East Empire

Separation of Greek and Latin Churches